HOTEL GUEST FINDS MAN IN ROOM; GOES FOR COPS; ESCAPES

When H. P. Kack went to his room at the English hotel, Second street and Copper avenue, yesterday afternoon, the door was locked and he heard someone inside. Kack gained entrance and found Frank Goodhue there. Goodhue said he was looking for someone. Kack left him in charge of the proprietress and went for the police.

Goodhue beat it as soon as Kack was out of sight, but Patrolman Fabian Lohr arrested him soon afterward at First street and Copper avenue. He was jailed. Kack told Chief McMillin that four girls, who he had in his room, had been searched. He found nothing missing.

'100 MEMBERS' WILL BE SLOGAN OF DUKE CITY'S BOOSTER FORCE

Cattlemen Will Be Constantly Reminded That They Can Increase Their Roster by Coming to Albuquerque.

FORMER GOVERNOR CURRY SAYS CHANCE IS GOOD

Colonel Sellers Leaves for Pass City to Get Line on Cowman Politics and Prepare Way for Crowd.

Albuquerque, Feb. 26.—(Associated Press Correspondence.) "El Paso, Tex., Feb. 26, 1915. The Morning Journal, Albuquerque, N. M. "Albuquerque has excellent chance to win cattlemen's convention. El Paso is with you. Suggest that you send active committee here to handle situation."

(Signed) "GEORGE CURRY." Governor Curry's suggestion has the hearty approval of the commercial club, in that it coincides with the club's view. That is his reference to an active committee does. The club is going to send a committee, so live that 2,000 votes wouldn't be any of the members.

"One Hundred New Members." This will be Albuquerque's slogan, which the boosters will shout in El Paso next week. The association is intended to convey to the cattlemen in that city that they will be able to pad the roster of their association by that number of new members, representing thousands of head of cattle, if they come to this city for their next convention.

President C. O. Cushman, of the Commercial club, is convinced that 100 stock raisers will join during the next year. Cattlemen's answers to the Commercial club's letters served to convince him that the decision to meet here could be followed by a flood of applications for membership. If the association takes this decision next week Secretary Harrell, it is said, will bring his office here to remain until the 1916 round-up for the purpose of extending the protection of the association to the great number of cattle in this state not now represented.

Colonel Sellers on Scout Duty. Col. D. K. B. Sellers, one of the more active of the boosters in stirring up Albuquerque to action looking toward capturing the convention, left for El Paso last night. He is the special representative of the Commercial club. His work is to see that none of the other candidates gets the jump on Albuquerque. Other delegations will be there ahead of the one from this city and it was to prevent their setting the thing before the local force got on the ground that Colonel Sellers went.

George Arnold and probably another will leave today to assist Colonel Sellers. It will be up to them to do the deep political stunt. The boosters who follow will furnish the thunder.

Mr. Cushman estimated that 100 passengers would go on the special. Secretary Tom Egan now has eighty-one paid fares and there are others who have said they wanted to go but who have not yet come across. Fifteen stockmen of this district sent word to Colonel Sellers yesterday that they would go on the special.

Women May Go. Mr. Cushman announced yesterday that women could go on the special if they cared to. The train will be made up of five cars; if a sufficiently large number of women want to go they can have a car to themselves. The train will stop at points along the line to pick up cattlemen or boosters who want to go with the Albuquerque bunch.

Colonel Sellers' suggestion that everybody bring cowboy hats was taken up enthusiastically and probably everyone on the special will be under a cowboy hat.

An incomplete list of those who will go on the special follows: J. B. Good, T. A. Egan, Morning Journal representative, G. Rogers, Frank McKee, W. Connell, N. Martin, M. Mandell, S. Stern, S. Stevens, Harry Leonard, Mayor Beahm, A. M. Fee, Gross, Kelly & Co. representative, Combs hotel representative, R. McDonald, City Clerk Hughes, J. C. Boyd, A. Archuleta, W. Anderson, Joe Barlett, Dr. Kraft, R. M. Fry, S. Delmas, D. Weinman, O. Durand, M. Goldenberg, Charles Gattin, W. Watson, J. Romero, D. Farr, J. Robertson, W. Hesselton, Senator Barth, Representative Veal, L. H. Chamberlain, W. L. Nomenan, Charles Chadwick, A. Vols, L. R. Putney representative, Charles Nomenan, Tony Garcia, Policarpo Arzola, Santiago Garcia, D. Robinson, George Rosling, C. P. Chase and J. A. Root.

OLDEST-FRENCH VOLUNTEER DIES FROM WOUNDS

Letters of Count Vladimir, Who Gave His Life for the Cause of the Allies, Are Published.

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Paris, Feb. 26.—Count Vladimir de la Fite de Pelleport, aged 59 years, and one of the oldest volunteers in the French army, died at Hellbrunn, Wurtemberg, August 27, from wounds received in fighting at Sarrebourg on August 15. His family has just made public some of the letters written after his incorporation in the army.

The 1st of August the bells of the little village of Childe in the department of Nièvre sounded the tocsin, and the count hurried to the village from his chateau to learn the cause. Returning shortly afterward he met the people from the chateau. "It is war," he said. "All of you return home; I am going to see the mayor."

With a certificate from the mayor, he went to Autun, the following day and energetically resisting the objections of the recruiting officers and the examining surgeon, enlisted as a private soldier. The following are extracts from his letters to his wife:

Affection for Wife. Autun, Aug. 4.—"My heart is heavy because of you, but in all sincerity I think I have done right because my example, I see, is doing good. At the hotel of the post, where I lunched, as a last resort to the colonels, I was told so that I am ashamed. * * * I was nearly moved. * * * Such moments are worth a great deal."

Autun, Aug. 5.—"My company was designated to go and take possession of the regimental flag. * * * Passing through the streets I was the object of many manifestations that embarrassed me not a little. * * * Just as we were setting out a tall devil of a civilian threw himself into my arms before I could dodge him, embraced me effusively and then pointed me out to the crowd. * * * Along the entire route the enthusiasm was delirious, but often so personal that I scarcely knew what to do."

Sarrebourg, Aug. 16.—"Everyone feels like looking after me. The captain gave up my knapsack during the march in the hot sun. * * * It is the daddy of the regiment."

Monday, Aug. 16.—"We marched all night and arrived near Dufportal where an attack from the Germans had been expected, but they had already retired, followed by some of our allies, burning all the villages and crops at the point of the bayonet."

King's Proclamation Read. Thursday, Aug. 15.—"I met General Maud'huy, who commands the sixteenth division. He had had the drummers beat to arms in order to read the proclamation of the king of Belgium. He said to the colonel before me, 'Colonel immediately after the first combat you will name Pelleport a soldier of the first class.' Then turning to me he added, 'It is the lowest grade and the best.' 'Yes,' the colonel put in, 'it is the only one to which he aspires.'"

Richeval, Aug. 16.—"Arrondissement de Sarrebourg, former Alace-Lorraine, again French since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that hour we crossed the frontier and pulled the German sign posts from French soil. * * * The battle has commenced. We arrived at Dolesville near noon and were at once engaged with a detachment of the enemy posted in a wood across a deep river. My left hand comrade, Bordeaux, best marksman of the regiment, was the first to fall stone dead with a bullet through the heart. I jumped to my feet crying, 'Chatterbox! Forward! That's a miracle that I escaped from that hail of bullets. We lost eighty men, but the Germans were put to route. * * * We marched across the field of the morning's battle: it was terrible to contemplate. Dead Germans, dead horses lying everywhere, with helmets and all the debris of war. * * * Our losses were heavy.'"

Describes Wound. Sarrebourg, Aug. 16.—"I am ashamed of all the marks of respect shown me. Now they call me the old daddy which vexes me a little. * * * We are within twelve miles of Sarrebourg. * * * I don't understand the Germans. I expect to see Champs-Élysées where we saw only a few of them. We have killed three. * * * They seem really terrified; but then we do charge them with the bayonet as if we were enraged whenever we have an opportunity, which is not often. What a horror war is! It's when the fear ceases that one realizes."

Aug. 15.—"I was wounded in the thigh on the 20th at the battle of Sarrebourg, thigh broken in two places. I was picked up by the Germans who treated me with a charitable indifference. I was conducted myself like a Pelleport, my dear, and I embrace you and all the dear ones fondly. Am feeling well."

Sarrebourg, Aug. 25.—"I wrote you this morning that I was wounded on Thursday. I think the second day of the battle of Sarrebourg. Our company, the Eighth, with the Seventh, was ordered to replace the Third battalion which, crushed by the artillery, had been obliged to retreat. * * * I don't understand the Germans. I expect to see Champs-Élysées where we saw only a few of them. We have killed three. * * * They seem really terrified; but then we do charge them with the bayonet as if we were enraged whenever we have an opportunity, which is not often. What a horror war is! It's when the fear ceases that one realizes."

Unfinished letter, found on the body of Count Pelleport, was forwarded to the countess by a charitable minded German. What the letter does not state is that Count Pelleport by his heroism led his company on to the attack and that after the battle he was named "soldier of the first class."

ARRESTED AT VEGAS CHARGED WITH ROBBING A SANTA FE SALOON

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL. Santa Fe, Feb. 26.—The Fink saloon was robbed this morning between 4:30 and 6 o'clock, while the employees had gone to the rear to get some stock. Twenty dollars in a sack belonging to the agent stand was taken, besides a grip containing $10.50 in cash and merchandise estimated to be worth between $200 and $300. Juan Dillon was arrested at Las Vegas on suspicion of being the thief. The grip which was stolen, and which belonged to a woman, was found in his possession. Sheriff Closson has gone to Las Vegas with a warrant sworn out by Jake Lofy, the proprietor of the saloon, and is expected here in the morning. A preliminary hearing is to take place tomorrow before a local justice of the peace.

Chief McMillin was notified over the long distance telephone yesterday by Sheriff Closson that Dillon probably would come here on the California limited. Both sections of the limited were in when the chief received the message. He learned from a conductor, however, that a man answering the description had attempted to get on the train at Lamy but was too drunk.

The chief was informed later that Chief Ben Coles had arrested the man at Las Vegas. He caught train No. 10 at Lamy.

Gilbert Stops Devere. Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—Dick Gilbert of Denver, knocked out Bob Devere in the seventh round of a scheduled ten-round bout here tonight. The men weighed in at 155 pounds.
